10. Please identify trends, challenges, or opportunities you think the National Collegiate Honors Council must address as the needs of students seeking an honors education continue to change.

I believe the NCHC needs to engage deeper in empirical research to support our honors programs and colleges and especially work to expand the available research on outcomes for two-year students.

11. In 250-300 words, please explain the strengths you can contribute as a member of the NCHC Board of Directors and your goals for service in the NCHC. (This statement will be published alongside your photo on the NCHC election ballot.)

Over the past 12 years, honors education has become both a part of my professional and academic identities. My honors journey started in my undergraduate education and has made positive influences on my work as an administrator, mentor, teacher, and advocate. I have been fortunate to have had a career that spans the spectrum of issues, challenges, and opportunities in higher education encompassing collaborative work in both student and academic affairs. For this reason, I enthusiastically express my interest in serving on the NCHC Board of Directors.

Since my first NCHC conference in 2012, I have facilitated several presentations, panels, and workshops including such notable sessions as Beginning in Honors, Developing in Honors, Students in Honors, and Summer Institutes. My NCHC service has also included membership on the NCHC Professional Development and Two-Year College Committees as well as organizing the Idea Exchange portion of the annual conference for several years.

Most of my service in honors has been devoted to leadership at the state and regional level, including presidencies with the Mid-East Honors Association, Southern Regional Honors Council, and the Florida Collegiate Honors Council. Through my work with these organizations, I have engaged in collaborative leadership to advance their missions for promoting honors educational practices and student experiences. I have also organized two state honors conferences and one regional honors conference.

These experiences have afforded me the opportunity to develop a wide-ranging network of honors colleagues who can greatly contribute to my position as a board member advocating for honors education on a national level. As a board member, I would be especially interested in advancing the NCHC research agenda to promote more empirical research that will further provide institutional stakeholders with evidence-based tools to support their programs.

4. Application Details
